

A new world of smart pH measurement that works the way you want to work

Our next generation range of sensors bring together over 70 years of ABB pioneering pH sensor development and application expertise with the latest advanced digital technology and sensor diagnostics.

The result, a new range of electrodes that are simple to select, own and operate, each combining the perfect combination of performance and price for cost-effective process control.

abb.com/wateranalysis

