Update to Customer order allocations: Low Voltage Dry Type Transformers

ABB is pleased to inform you that the allocation implemented for Low Voltage Dry Type Transformers on January 7, 2022, has been lifted. Effective immediately, customers may place orders of any SKU without quantity limitations.

We continue to monitor conditions and anticipate changes in order to maintain production capacity and product delivery and we continue to invest in manufacturing capacity and new product development. Please note that despite our efforts, if conditions change, allocations could be implemented again.

We appreciate your preference and patience during these unprecedented times. We are committed to the commercial and industrial markets and are focused on long-term growth and sustainability in our facilities and our product offering.

Thanks for your business.

The ABB team
